

SWING-A-RING

Teeth

various locations

With the abundance of cell phones, phone booths are becoming obsolete relics of the past. What a waste! I'll be turning phone booth doors into saloon doors, giving the booths function again by turning them into whimsical pieces of interactive and functional art.

THEE AMBIENT AUDIENCE

Ryan Kinney

roaming

Through the use of microphones, electronic effects and amplification, the ambient sounds of Nuit Blanche will be collected, altered, echoed, distorted, phased and played back to those who created the sounds in the first place; the audience.

CAUTION: ART

Stephanie Avery

various locations

When the AGO reopened its doors in November, there were some pieces of art that appeared to be objects of pure function. Benches that, save for some small signs, seemed to be meant for sitting on, not gazing at. These signs read 'Caution: Art!'. They transformed what otherwise seemed to be nice looking benches into objects of art.

Using this technique of transformation, I will be placing similar signs on regular objects around the Nuit Blanche zones.

Mailboxes, park benches, lamp posts, and so much more, will become art! Like many ready-made art pieces, re-contextualizing these regular objects as art will transform their meanings and turn them into pieces of wonder. The only difference is that instead of bringing these objects into a gallery, the pieces stay where they are and the city becomes the gallery.

CHIP'S BIG NIGHT OUT

Posterchild

various locations

Like a lot of people, Big Chip is out for adventures tonight—and wants photos to prove they happened! Big Chip is a life-size hand-sewn doll by Toronto street artist Posterchild. You might find Chip at any one of the official nuit blanche events or Les Rues des Refuses events, or maybe left inside a pizzeria! WHO KNOWS. He wants you to take him around, show him the sights, and take your photographs together!

Document your adventures and upload them to flickr with the tag "Chips Big Night Out" or email them to posterchilds.blade.diary@gmail.com.

SKELETAL WARDROBE CURATORIAL PROJECT

Monika Berenyi and Michelle Turpin

A rolling circuit, Beginning at the Bata Shoe Museum on Bloor St., eastward to Yonge St., north to Yorkville Ave., through Hazelton Lanes and the Four Seasons Hotel, southbound down Avenue Rd, and westward back to the Bata Shoe Museum. The circuit will run as a consecutive loop.

8pm – 11pm

A 3-dimensional moving installation, one that reveals the skeletal foundations of a paradigm collection in process. The multifold layers of raw design, mechanical structuring, infinite textures, creative drama, and idealized hypnotic silhouettes are revealed. The work is accompanied by its creators.
